1 Corinthians 2:10-16

Reflection Questions

1

Read John 14:26-27. What are some daily, weekly, monthly, and annual rhythms that might make space for the Holy Spirit to speak the mind of Christ to us? What rhythm might the Holy Spirit be prompting you to implement this season in your own life?

2

Read Romans 12:1-2. What are some regular practices that can help renew our minds in Christ rather than conform to the way of the world? What regular practice might the Holy Spirit be prompting you to implement this season in your own life?

On Sunday, Danny challenged us with an important question: “What would it look like for us, Christians—wired by God to know and dwell with Him, redeemed by Jesus’ life, death, and resurrection, and now indwelt by the Holy Spirit—to live as followers of Christ?...What would it look like to love God with all our heart and with all our soul and with all our mind and with all our strength individually; and to love others enough to give them the latitude to do the same?”

Consider this question for a moment. How might your thoughts concerning this question inform the rhythms and practices you’ve identified?
